

but also its expressions of a desire that the business of the special session shall be confined as much as possible to the consideration of the revision of the tariff. The message was referred to the Committee on Finance.

On motion of Senator Latta, it was then agreed that when the Senate adjourns today it will be to meet on Friday. Among several petitions that were presented was one from the New Hampshire Legislature in opposition to the proposition for a Federal inheritance tax, claiming that that source of revenue should be reserved to the States.

Executive Session.
On motion of Senator Frye at 12:10, the Senate went into executive session.

The Senate was in executive session only eight minutes, but in that time it confirmed the nominations of John W. Warrington, of Ohio, to the United States circuit judge of the sixth judicial circuit and the following postmasters: John C. Young, at Portland, Ore.; and Theron A. Fawcett, at Camden, N. J. At 12:15 the Senate adjourned until Friday.

Earlier in the session Senator Aldrich reported from the committee appointed to wait upon the President to notify him that the Senate was in session and ready to receive any communications from him, that the President had replied that he would communicate his desires to the Senate at once.

President Prompt.
Senator Aldrich had scarcely finished making this announcement before Mr. Latta, the President's messenger, arrived with the message.

Prolonged applause greeted Secretary Latta when he delivered his reading of the message. Throughout its reading members listened with the greatest attention and at its close there was a whirlwind of handclapping.

SENATE IS EAGER TO GET NEW BILL

Just as soon as the new tariff bill has been introduced in the House, the Senate Finance Committee will take it up promptly and will keep pace with the House in the consideration of it. It is expected the new members of the committee will be announced shortly and then the Republicans in the committee will begin work in earnest.

Senator Aldrich has been devoting most of his time lately to preparation for the great task of shaping up the tariff bill. He is in touch with the House leaders and he has been studying sentiment in the Senate so that he is well aware what conditions will have to be met when the bill comes to the floor. The Senator is anxious to get the tariff bill through. He has given it out there will be no lagging at the Senate end of the Capitol.

Senators are eager to get a copy of the new bill. Most every Senator has some industry in which his State is specially interested and this fact will have an important bearing on the final shaping of the measure.

TARIFF BILL HELD FOR NEW MEMBER

Reported Tomorrow Perhaps—Bonyne's Successor to See Measure.

Chairman Payne, of the Ways and Means Committee, decided today not to introduce the tariff bill until after the appointment of the new Republican member of the committee to take the place of former Representative Bonyne of Colorado. He deemed it proper to show the bill to Bonyne's successor before presenting it to the House.

At noon today it was believed that the bill would not be reported from committee till tomorrow.

RESULT OF THE FIGHT BIG REGULAR VICTORY

Asher Hinds, Parliamentary Expert of the House, Declares Speaker Is Now Entrenched Behind Power Never Before Known.

The regular Republicans, won the day by a comfortable majority—211 to 172. The Republican insurgents were well pleased with the showing they had made of ability to stick together. They went to the ditch in solid array, 31 strong. It was after all the Democrats who failed to deliver, and that was no fault of Champ Clark. The things which the Clark Democrats were saying last night, and are now saying, about the potency of a Tammany-Cannon combination are hardly proper for repetition. It is all laid to Tammany, with occasional adversions to the power of certain industrial combinations in some spots of the South.

Fight Not Ended.

The fight will go forward. The regular Democrats and insurgents are fully agreed on this. Plans will be made within a few days for the coming moves. Whether there will be a long and determined filibuster during the present session is yet to be decided; but it is probable there will not. The insurgent Republicans will not take any position that will endanger tariff legislation. They propose to make clean record, that point, that they will fight with the Republican regulars as hard as anybody for revision. But after the tariff bill has passed the House the rules question will hardly be kept down. The anti-Cannon people are confident they will have the benefit of an immense vote in public opinion and general support; and with this, looking to the Congressional campaign of a year hence, they believe the fight can be pushed effectively.

What the regulars believe is set forth in the statement by Mr. Hinds. Little need be added to that statement to indicate the claims of the regulars about the sweeping character of the victory which they have won. In public opinion and general support; and with this, looking to the Congressional campaign of a year hence, they believe the fight can be pushed effectively.

Leaders' Motives.

The caucus last night was decided upon by the Democratic leaders for the purpose of outlining their future course, particularly with reference to committee appointments. It is now pretty generally understood around the House that Speaker Cannon is going to live up to his title of "The Iron Duke," a title which was used by Representative Norris of Nebraska several times in his speech on the rules yesterday afternoon.

Those who did their utmost to accomplish the defeat of the Speaker and overthrow the rules can expect no favors at his hands. This applies to Republican insurgents as well as to Democrats. Champ Clark will probably remain on the Ways and Means Committee, but unless the Speaker has a softening of the heart, the minority leader will not be permitted to take a place on the Rules Committee, as successor to John Sharp Williams. That place has been reserved for John J. Fitzgerald of New York, who sprang in the limelight yesterday as the only one opposed to the present rules who had a concrete proposition to present to the House. Representative De Armond of Missouri probably will retain his place on the committee.

Called Traitors.

Mr. Fitzgerald, incidentally, was handled without gloves at last night's caucus. He and those who followed him were denounced as traitors to their party. The upshot of the caucus was a pledge that the Democrats should stand by Champ Clark to the finish. The following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, That it is the sense of the Democratic caucus that no Democrat should accept appointment on any committee without the previous approval of the present Democratic leader."

This resolution was agreed to by 125 Democrats, thirty-two less than attended the caucus yesterday morning. It is intended to be used to discipline unruly members of the party. It is predicted today that many Democrats will take what they can get from the Speaker in the way of committee appointments and ignore Clark altogether. Fitzgerald, for instance, will not hesitate to remain on the Appropriations Committee, whether Clark likes it or not, and the same is true of several others who have desirable committee berths and who desire to keep them.

Cannon Has Much Time to Select Burial Places For Insurgents

Now that the war is over in the House, at least for the time being, it is expected there will be busy times ahead for those important committees, such as the Disposition of Unsettled Claims, Finance, Ways and Means, and Expenditures, Mileage, Pacific Railroads, and Expenditures in the various departments.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, at last reports, was in a frame of mind that impelled him to "blister" the insurgents. He would like to get even with the men who have been going counter to the House organization on the rules and other matters. Between now and next December, it is expected one of the Speaker's chief diversions in his leisure hours, as he sits out on his porch at Danville and inhales the fumes of his long black cigar, will be to study out places of interest for the insurgents. Presumably the Hon. Victor Murdock of Kansas will come in for a place on the Disposition of Unsettled Claims Committee and Gardner of Massachusetts will be allowed to keep a sharp eye on such business as comes before the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Agriculture.

At any rate, just now there is a lot of talk of getting even. Not long ago, for instance, it was announced that certain Republicans had banded together to take the tariff off fish and thus get Gardner into the list of undesirable citizens up at Gloucester. It may be that the lapse of six months or so will tend to soften the asperity of the Speaker's temper. Still, most of the insurgents say frankly they went into the fight over the rules and the Speakership which has just closed without regard to whether they got good committee assignments in this Congress and that the struggle has just begun. It is their conviction that the matter will be an issue of no small importance in the next Congressional campaign.

CURRENCY REFORM TO FRONT THIS YEAR

Aldrich Expected to Push Some Kind of Bill Next Winter.

It can be set down as pretty certain that the question of currency reform will be pushed to the front with great vigor about the opening of the December session of Congress if by that time there is serious manifestation of purpose to press any radical amendments to the interstate commerce laws, or to reorganize into more effective shape the anti-trust act.

Senator Aldrich is credited with two purposes in connection with the work of the monetary commission, of which he is the father and executive. In the first place he wants currency legislation because he sincerely believes the country needs it. He considers the present system unsatisfactory and ill adapted to the nation's needs. He has ambition to be the father of a real currency system for the country; one which will be a monument to his constructive capacity and will give answer to the cynical assumption that he is a mere Senate agent of interests.

Strong for Peace.

But aside from all that, the Rhode Island Senator is strong for peace and harmony. He doesn't want the big questions involving the relation of the Government to corporations stirred up. He doesn't think anything is to be gained by any more interstate commerce legislation just now. And in order to save off anything of this kind the currency reform business is to be developed into a great issue in the Senate and used as a buffer to fend off any uncomfortable propositions. It may not be necessary in the near future to work up much excitement over currency; but at any time when it appears necessary it will be pushed to the front, and will forthwith absorb all attention of the Senatorial elders.

Playing for position is a great game in the national legislature; a game at which a few powerful men are most adept. They have various schemes of stopping gaps and killing time. The postal savings bill has served a splendid purpose last session, and so has the penal code legislation.

Present Taft is himself strongly in favor of currency reform. He believes it one of the biggest things his administration could accomplish.

Currency Commission.

The Currency Commission is about a year old, has had a pleasant trip to Europe, and is providing berths for a group of retired statesmen who, having met disaster at home, are attached to the government pay rolls as members of the commission. It is rather expected that the commission will make a report by next December. Probably it will not be a final and conclusive report. In fact, there is the authority of a well-known Senator for saying it will not be sufficiently final list to justify any thought of discharging it and putting an end to its sorry.

MEMBERS OF HOUSE SCRAMBLE FOR SEATS

Old-Timers and Committee Chairmen Are Given the Privilege of Selecting Their Places Without Having to Draw Lots.

The picturesque scene of members of the House depending upon a blindfolded page for an opportunity to choose their seats during the present Congress was witnessed in the House today. Previous to the drawing by lot, Representative Russell of Texas, a new member, was sworn in by Speaker Cannon.

Representative Mann of Illinois then obtained, the unanimous consent to a resolution authorizing several of the veterans and important committee chairmen to select their own seats. Among these were Representative Bingham of Pennsylvania, "father of the House," Kiefer of Ohio, a former Speaker, Sherwood of Ohio, who is slightly deaf, Chairman Payne, of the Ways and Means Committee, Chairman Clark, minority leader, Chairman Tawney, of the Appropriations Committee, Representative Livingston of Alabama, Representative Sperry of Connecticut, oldest member in the House, and Representative DeArmond of Missouri, and Talbot of Maryland, two of the old-timers in point of service on the Democratic side.

Sulloway Is Called

The name of "Uncle Cy" Sulloway of New Hampshire was the first to be called. Mr. Sulloway took a seat in the front row on the Republican side. When the name of Mr. Cooper of Wisconsin was called he hurried down the center aisle and took possession of a seat formerly occupied by Representative Mann.

As Mr. Tawney did not have to draw for a seat he moved over into the place formerly occupied by Walter J. Smith of Iowa. A few minutes later Mr. Smith separated from Tawney by Representative Scott of Kansas, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture.

Payne Moves Up.

Mr. Payne had moved down front row and Mr. Baskett took possession of the majority leader's desk. Representatives Sperry, Bingham and Livingston retained their old places by Representative Hamilton Fish, formerly Collector of the Port of New York, one of the new members and the successor to Representative McMillan, selected a seat in the same row with Dalzell. Kiefer held on to the seat which was occupied by William McKinley.

Some members were sick enough to get pages to sit in seats which they desired, and hold them until their names were called.

It was not long before the Republican side was completely filled up. Then Minority Leader Clark suggested that the "Cherokee" strip, be established in the last aisle nearest the lobby, and to the Speaker's left. "We don't want the Republicans," he said, "to mix in with Democrats, unless they're insurgents."

Norris (Rep., Neb.), who is a confirmed bolder and who received several insurgent votes for Speaker, immediately marched across the aisle and took his place in the strip amid cheers and jokes of the entire House. Soon after, however, Currier, who presided at the Republican caucus and is one of the Speaker's standbys, had to take his place in the "Cherokee strip" amid laughter all over the House.

What Congress Did

IN THE SENATE.

The Senate met at noon and received report of committee named yesterday to notify the President that Congress had assembled.

The President's message was listened to with close attention.

After executive session, the Senate adjourned until Friday.

IN THE HOUSE.

President Taft's message on the tariff was read in the House.

Chairman Payne, of the Ways and Means Committee, announced that the tariff bill would not be brought in until tomorrow.

The members of the House drew for their seats during the next Congress.

ECZEMA CURED IN SIMPLE WAY

No More Itching the Stomach—Cure the Skin Through the Skin.

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash it out and cleanse it and then the skin cures itself.

The best skin specialists today are agreed that the only way to cure the skin is through the skin. For statistics show that nearly all eczema sufferers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. And if the eczema patients were really suffering from an internal malady, the entire body and not only the skin would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the relief of a true skin cure by using oil of wintergreen as compounded in Dr. D. D. Prescription. This liquid kills the disease germs, while toning up the healthy part of the skin.

We have now handled this meritorious and thoroughly scientific remedy for so long and have seen its reliable results so many times that we freely express our confidence.
